German Submarine Bombards English North Sea Harbor--Czar's Troops Checked at Dvina

TOKIO, July 12.—Four super-dreadnaughts are provided for in a construction program completed by the ministry of marine today. It calls for a continual strengthening of the Japanese navy up to 1923. The program provides for an expenditure of $125,000,000.

LONDON, July 12.—German troops have regained positions at Mametz and at Trones wood, according to the official report on the Somme operations issued by the British war office this afternoon. Farther to the north, however, the English forces opened an offensive in the region of Loos and succeeded in penetrating German trenches.

The statement issued by the war office on operations against the Germans was transmitted from British headquarters at noon and was as follows:

"Since the commencement of the battle the enemy has been largely reinforced. Yesterday and last night attacks were made at several points against our new positions. Except at Mametz and Trones wood, in both of which the Germans regained ground, all attacks were repulsed with losses for the enemy.

"Between the main battle-field and the sea we were actively engaged in bombarding the enemy's positions and raiding the front.

"To the southward of Loos a party of Royal Irish Fusiliers penetrated the enemy's trenches where they were strongly held. They remained 20 minutes, during which time there was heavy fighting. Many Germans were killed. Our casualties were slight. Opposite Hohenzollern two companies of Seaforth Highlanders forced their way into the enemy's trenches after a stiff fight. Many Germans were killed and wounded and machine guns destroyed. Dug-outs crowded with the enemy were successfully bombed and prisoners taken.

"Several combats in the air occurred Monday. We destroyed one German machine. One of our own was brought down."

U-BOAT ATTACKS TOWN.

German Submersible Bombards Harbor on North Sea Coast.

LONDON, July 12.—A German submarine bombarded Seaham Harbor, on the North sea coast of England during the night. A woman was killed, according to the official statement issued today telling of the raid.

Seaham is a seaport of Durham county and lies six miles southeast of Sunderland. Large shipments of coal are made from there. The town has a population of approximately 13,000.

The statement issued by the war office follows:

"At 10:30 o'clock last night a German submarine appeared off the small undefended port of Seaham Harbor. It approached within a hundred yards of the town and opened fire. Some 30 rounds of shrapnel were fired from a three inch gun. Twenty rounds fell in the direction of Dalton Le Dale and a dozen around the Seaham colliery.

"A woman walking in the colliery yard was seriously injured and died this morning. A house was struck."

"There were no further casualties or damage."

Submarine Here With Valuable Cargo

THOS. F. TIMMINS OF BALTIMORE PILOTING SUBMARINE INTO HARBOR.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 12. With a cargo of drugs and dyes for this country, the giant German submarine "Deutschland" is now unloading its consignment. There are no torpedo tubes on the Deutschland; she carries two 3-inch guns, for defensive purposes only. The successful termination of her cruise will tend to remake all laws of maritime law, is the opinion of naval experts and diplomats.

It is reported, upon reliable authority, that there are other undersea boats on the way.

ANOTHER SUBMARINE ON WAY TO U. S. WITH CARGO FROM GERMANY

Bremen, Sister Ship of Deutschland, Has Cleared and Is Headed For American Port

TO FIX STATUS THURSDAY

Diplomats Expect Washington to Declare Submersible Merely An Unarmed Merchantmen

BALTIMORE, Md., July 12.—Germany's second step in her commercial campaign against the British-French blockade has been taken, and the second commercial submarine in the world's history is now on her way across the Atlantic. It became known here today that the super-submarine Bremen, sister ship of the pioneer Deutschland, has cleared from a German port and is now feeling her way over and through the enemy-infested waters of the ocean, bound for an American port.

Paul Hilken, local agent of the Deutsche Ozean-Rhederei, the concern which organized the submarine service, inadvertently announced that the Bremen is on her way. After making the announcement he flatly refused to go into details, or to indicate when the Bremen had started or what American port she might make.

"We cannot talk about the Bremen," he said. "All the facts about her are business secrets and it is apparent to any one that we ought not to betray anything which might lead to her apprehension by enemy warships."

The safe arrival of the Bremen is counted upon by German diplomacy to give substantial basis for their proposed contention that a regular merchant sea service has been inaugurated, despite the British-French blockade.

The apparent determination of the French and British governments to treat the Deutschland as a warship, to be destroyed on sight, evoked indignant comment from Consul Leuderitz today.

"It seems to me that we have proved that the Deutschland is a merchant ship," he said, "and that she was built for that purpose and that purpose only. Surely Great Britain and France cannot deny her that for which they have so long contended as the right of all merchantmen, the right to peaceful visit and search."

WASHINGTON, July 12.—A ruling on the official status of the German submarine Deutschland, now in Baltimore harbor, will be made by the state department late this afternoon or early tomorrow. Acting Secretary of State Polk today called for all of the facts in the possession of the treasury department dealing with the vessel. Officials close to the administration say that the ruling will completely establish the peaceful character of the Deutschland and will state in open terms that she is a merchant vessel in all respects.

GERMAN DIPLOMACY BUSY.

Von Bernstorff Takes Formal Charge of Deutschland Case.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 12.—German diplomacy today took up the task of proving that Germany enterprise and daring had broken the British-French blockade of German ports and had sadly wrenched Great Britain's control of the seas.

Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, formally took charge of the case of the super-submarine Deutschland, and the diplomatic dispute started by the vessel's record-breaking trans-Atlantic voyage. German enterprise in the person of the merchant who backed the trip, and German daring in the person of Captain Paul Koenig, who piloted the merchant submarine, stepped aside for the diplomatist.

Three great obstacles confronted the German diplomatist in his fight to secure the acquiescence of the United States to the proposition that the trip of the Deutschland marks the end of a legal blockade of Germany. They were:

The fact that only one boat has evaded the blockading fleets and that only one blockade runner cannot be considered to have "broken a blockade."

The contention that the super-submarine in its very nature cannot be compelled to comply with the provisions of international law governing merchant ships, particularly the provision which forces warships to "visit and search" suspected merchantmen.

The contention that the Deutschland, as a submarine, even if admitted to be a merchant vessel, is under the German view of international law, available to be converted into a war vessel on the high seas.

With true German efficiency, work was begun today to meet each of these points. Agents of the German line which controls the Deutschland made it clear that her trip was but the beginning of German undersea trade. They declared that the Deutschland's sister ship Bremen was either already on her way to the United States, or soon would be. And they asserted that plans were under way for the establishment of a regular freight service by submarine, with weekly sailings.

"A complete fleet of merchant submarines is now nearing completion," said Paul Hilken, local agent of the Deutsche Ozean-Rhederei, which sent the Deutschland on her epoch-making voyage. "Just as soon as they can be commissioned and manned, they will begin sailings for this country. We propose to establish a service comparatively as complete as that now maintained by the British and French liners."

To indicate the feasibility of their plan, the Germans planned to start the Deutschland on her return trip just as soon as she can be made ready and loaded, and the legal formalities complied with. Captain Koenig said today that unless unforeseen conditions arose, the submarine would leave Baltimore within 10 days.

Infantile Paralysis Continues Its Ravages

Isolation of Germ Just Accomplished; Big Aid in Fight.

COLUMBUS, O., July 12.—The state health board today received notification of the fifth case of infantile paralysis which has developed in Ohio this month. The latest case is in Bellefontaine. Acting Secretary Bauman said the Bellefontaine case has no connection with the New York City epidemic.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The city health department announced today that success had been attained in the long effort to isolate the germ of infantile paralysis. This is expected to prove of vast aid in combatting the epidemic now raging in this city. The germ of poliomyelitis, the scientific name for infantile paralysis, has been sought for many years. The announcement that it had been isolated came unexpectedly. The health officials gave no details, stating that these would be made known Thursday night.

The disease continued its ravages. 164 new cases being recorded in the 24 hours from 10 a. m. Tuesday to 10 a. m. today. These increased the total number to 1,442, or nearly three-fifths of the total number recorded during the entire period of the epidemic in 1907.

Of the new cases announced today 131 are in Brooklyn, 12 in Manhat-

Measles Breaks Out Among Pennsylvania Cavalry at Border.

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 12.—General Ignacio Enriquez and three other Carranza officers of high rank were taken from a train near Jimenez early today and executed by Pancho Villa's outlaws, according to advices received here today from General Jacinto Trevino, Carranza commander at Chihuahua. The officers were coming north on a special train in accordance with Minister of War Obregon's plans for a redistribution of commanding officers throughout northern Mexico.

NOGALES, Ariz., July 12.—German officers are drilling Carranza troops at Magdalena and other concentration points south of Nogales, according to Americans arriving here today from Hermosillo. The arrivals stated that Mexicans were boasting that active assistance had been secured.

EL PASO, Texas, July 12.—Official denial of reports that the Carranza army under General Trevino at Chihuahua City had evacuated that place before the advance of a large Villa force, was issued today in Juarez. The denial was generally accepted as true, though the reports of Chihuahua's evacuation had been so strong that General Bell, commander at Fort Bliss, had forwarded them to Washington.

That Chihuahua will again fall into Villa's power is not considered impossible here, however. General Trevino's position was always far from secure. Chihuahua City is a hotbed of Villa sentiment. It was where Villa shone as a paternal di-

ATTEMPT TO WRECK PENNSY LIMITED BY DYNAMITE ON TRAIN

Two Women Place 103 Sticks of Explosive Between Rails.

ALTOONA, Pa., July 12.—Railroad detectives rushed from all parts of the state to this city to investigate the attempted dynamiting of a passenger train on the Pennsylvania railroad near Hellwood last night, have learned that two women were seen walking along the tracks shortly before the dynamite was discovered.

The detectives are working on the theory that these women laid the 103 sticks of dynamite with time fuses attached found between the tracks early this morning. One of the bundles of dynamite exploded near Hellwood station shortly after train No. 669 carrying scores of passengers had passed that section of track this morning.

An investigation by track walkers led to the discovery of 87 sticks of dynamite, tied in bundles of eight, lying near the water pans between the rails. Two hours later an explosion in a string of passenger coaches standing near Hellwood station demolished one of the cars and badly damaged a second. Sixteen more sticks of dynamite were found in that vicinity.

The railroad detectives are at a loss to explain a motive for the attempted dynamiting.

CHILD DRINKS GASOLINE.

WABASH, Ind., July 12.—The 2-year-old son of Earl Harmon, farmer, died an hour after he had swallowed a quantity of gasoline. The child found the fluid in a cup and drank it, thinking it was water.

that the submarine cannot comply with the international law governing merchantmen, the Germans will declare that an unarmed submarine seeking to evade the right of a warship to "visit and search" would, like any other merchantman, risk destruction by the guns of the warship. On this point, and to refute the declaration that the merchant submarine could quickly be converted into a war ship on the high seas, the Germans will adduce the reports made by federal port officials and Captain C. E. Hughes and the naval experts who yesterday inspected the Deutschland. These reports, the Germans declare, make it clear that the construction of the submarine would make it impossible to convert her into a war vessel without practically rebuilding the entire ship.

The German agents here today took it for granted that the state department would follow the recommendation of the treasury department and the naval experts who examined the Deutschland and would promptly recognize her as a merchant vessel. All of the future diplomatic contentions from the German side will be based on this recognition, which was accepted as already practically given.

Forty husky negro stevedores rushed the work of unloading the Deutschland at her guarded dock today. Thousands of cases of dyestuffs were taken from the interior of the vessel and stored in the nearby warehouse or loaded on freight cars. The unloading probably will take another 24 hours, and work will then be begun putting aboard the nickel and rubber which will be taken back to Germany.

Captain Koenig and his crew have become a sort of community possession of Baltimore, and the sailors are almost mobbed by admirers whenever they appear in public. Captain Koenig has arranged to keep his crew on the interned North German Lloyd liner Neckar, which was today moved alongside the Deutschland's berth and the men will be given practically no shore leave.

Captain Koenig himself is a popular idol. Baltimore is crowded with thousands of visitors attending the convention of the B. P. O. E., and the Elks have made the submarine a feature of their festivities. Captain Koenig made an effort to get a square shore meal at a local hotel, and was immediately mobbed. A thousand shouting, cheering people surrounded him as soon as he was recognized, the hotel dining room was nearly wrecked and a band was requisitioned to play "America" and "Die Wacht Am Rhein." Captain Koenig stood at attention with bare head while both anthems were played, and the crowd went wild. The captain was made an honorary Elk on the spot.

Captain Koenig has been deluged with invitations from all parts of the country urging him to attend banquets, make speeches and attend all sorts of functions. But the captain declared today that he was too busy to accept any of the invitations.

Several representatives of various dye concerns reached Baltimore today and made efforts to secure parts of the Deutschland's cargo. All were referred to the A. Schumacher company, to which the dyestuffs were consigned. It is probable that a part of the cargo will go to the United States government, which is feeling the lack of colors for printing paper money and stamps.

NEW PARISH WILL HAVE HOLY FEAST SERVICE ON SUNDAY

Mass Said Daily at St. Gerard's Chapel on North Main Street.

Feast day of the most Holy Redeemer, the most important feast day for the year for the order of the redemptionist fathers and from which the name of the order is derived, will mark the opening of the new St. Gerard's parish at Main street and Robb avenue and will be another notable epoch in the history of Catholicism in this city. It occurs on next Sunday, July 16.

In April the site for the new edifice was purchased, embracing the large and commodious house at the corner of Main street and Robb avenue, carrying with it about six acres of ground and running along Robb avenue from Main street to West street.

The first of May the Rev. John G. Behr, rector of the new parish arrived here and immediately set about remodeling the large residence at the east end of the plot into a chapel and pastors' residence.

The interior of the house has been modernized and a beautiful white altar has been erected in the parlor, where mass is celebrated daily. The adjoining rooms have been fitted up with seating capacity to accommodate about one hundred worshippers.

On next Sunday mass will be said at 7 a. m. and 10 a. m. and it is expected that all Catholics residing north of Grand avenue will attend these services.

Masses are also celebrated daily at 6 a. m. and 7 a. m. when all who can are urged to attend. Confessions will be heard on Saturday afternoons from 3:30 to 6 o'clock and in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. Baptism will be administered at 3 p. m. on Sundays.

The plans for the new free-proof church were received here by Father Behr, on Monday and were returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., for a few minor changes to comply with the Ohio state building code. As soon as these changes are made the contract will be let by competitive bidding in this city. The chapel in the pastors' residence will be used for services until the completion of the new church and school.

The Rev. John G. Behr and the Rev. Martin Mulligan, who have been here for some time, were joined here this week by Rev. Henry Sippel and Rev. John Grell, all of whom will reside at this mission house. The latter two priests will be engaged most of their time in giving missions to various parishes throughout Ohio, while Fathers Behr and Mulligan will look after the affairs of the new parish of St. Gerard. All these new priests in this community are members of the redemptionist order, with headquarters in Brooklyn, N. Y., and are among some of the brightest minds of the Catholic clergy, and as pulpit orators, are second to none—having had wide experience in the mission field, great results in winning souls to God is looked for in their new field of labor. Father Behr, who has been in Lima since the first of May speaks very highly of the Lima people in general and especially of the co-operation of the members of his new charge. He states that he is gratified at the courteous treatment that he has received from the Catholics and non-Catholics since his advent here and he predicts a healthy growth for St. Gerard's parish.

HILARIOUS BOARDER NOW AT HOTEL ELY

Sheriff Eley was summoned to Shawnee township last night, where he placed under arrest Thomas Jones, charged with assault. Jones, with a companion, was camping along the road-way. A woman passed, with her small child, which she was wheeling in the baby cart.

Jones, according to the story told by the woman, assaulted her and endeavored to force her to give up the child. She ran feeling from him, carrying her child.

When arrested, Jones was in a highly intoxicated state. At the county jail he rolled about on the floor and any attempt to wake him, proved futile.

This morning, when he had sobered, Jones begged Deputy Sheriff Marion Watt for "just one drink of whiskey." To Sheriff Eley, Jones said he never drank a drop.

He will spread his feet under the sheriff's table for yet a few days, at least.

School playgrounds at the College building, on North Jameson avenue, will be opened Friday. A gang of men have been working on the new apparatus for some weeks. It will be one of the most complete in the city.

Employees of the Carter and Carroll store will hold their annual picnic this evening at McCullough lake park. A delightful supper will be served at 6 o'clock. About 50 will enjoy the outing.

Two boys will be selected to represent Allen county as corn growers at the State Fair in Columbus. Selection will be made by vote at the court house, Saturday. The state board will provide for their expense while their guests.

Commissioners James L. Heath, Frank Wright and Walter Craig were in Van Wert today, where they held a joint session with the Van Wert county board on the Jennings Perry joint county ditch improvement. The ditch will be lengthened, deepened and cleaned. The improvement, which is some miles in length, affects several counties.

Fridley and John Bixel are the backers of the organization. The officers elected are: Harry Solomon, president, and Attorney Paul T. Landis, secretary and treasurer.

The combination of officers constitute the board of control. Applications for membership in the Tennis club may be made through any of the members of the Holding club.

The courts are located on block west of Woodlawn avenue and one block north of Lakewood. They are fur in number and will be ready for use by the end of this week. A club house is to be erected on the grounds, for the purpose of providing a commodious place for shower baths, etc. The courts are expected to be the best in the city. As the demand requires, additional courts will be built to take care of the increased membership when applications swell the membership to more than the capacity of the present four courts.

FULTON PROTESTS AGAINST ANTENEN

COLUMBUS, O., July 12.—Former State Representative William D. Fulton, of Newark, today filed a written protest with Secretary of State Hildebrand against the candidacy of Carl T. Antenen, of Hamilton, for the democratic nomination for secretary of state. Fulton, who also is a democratic candidate for this position, claimed that Antenen's candidacy is in the interests of State Representative Thornton Snyder, of Cincinnati, another candidate for this position.

According to Fulton, Antenen consented to the use of his name solely because it entitled him to first place on the primary ballot. If Antenen was out of the race, Fulton would be first.

WORKS ALL DAY FOR $500 BAIL FOR SON

Mother Pays Last Cent and Borrows Money For His Release.

"It's pretty hard when you lie down at night, in a good bed, to think your son is sleeping in the confines of the county jail," said the mother of Charles Atkinson this afternoon, as she waited in the corridors of the court-house for the county clerk to return to complete the signing of the bond which would open the jail doors for her son. Atkinson pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary in the court of Justice Bliss in Delphos yesterday.

With Cecil Hosack, he is said to have confessed to entering the Wahmhoff drug store in Delphos to secure narcotics.

Justice Bliss bound the two over to the grand jury in the sum of $500. Atkinson's mother, in visiting her son in the jail, said, as she left, she would do all she could for him. Motherlike, she was able to have the bond signed and early this afternoon Atkinson was released from jail.

She spent the biggest part of the day at the jail in an endeavor to get her son temporarily from the big iron doors which shut him from the outside world.

PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Arnold and their two sons, who reside in Florida, but have been spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hosshehn of 902 Rice avenue, left yesterday for a camping expedition of a month or so in northern Michigan.

William H. Howell, chief dispatcher of the Ohio Electric Railway company, spent the day in Fort Wayne.

P. B. Welty has returned from northern Michigan, where he motored with his family on Sunday. They will spend some time in the north.

ELECTROCUTED AT FIRE.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 12.—One is known to have been killed and three are missing and believed to have been buried in the ruins left by a fire that swept through the village of Duryea early today. John Commer, a fireman, was electrocuted while fighting the flames. A hotel and dance hall were destroyed within a few minutes after the fire broke out.

tan, 15 in Queens, 3 in Richmond and 1 in the Bronx. The new cases announced Tuesday number 195, today's figures showing a decrease of 31.

Brooklyn continues to report the largest number of deaths and new cases, but a new center of the disease has been found in an apartment house district in Manhattan and it is feared that the epidemic will now gain strength in the latter borough. The small number of cases in Manhattan has previously been attributed to the widespread use of pasteurized milk in the congested East Side section.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—In the expectation of receiving an immediate appropriation from congress to extend its fight against the epidemic of infantile paralysis which now is extinguishing a life an hour in New York City and at several other points, the United States public health service today perfected plans for a pretentious campaign against the malignant plague. Thirteen more surgeons will be detailed to the work of combating the malady the instant congress makes the additional funds available. Four hundred thousand dollars, placed to the credit of the service for fighting epidemics, cannot be touched because infantile paralysis is not listed among the plagues which the money was appropriated to fight.

STAND BY PRESIDENT SAYS MOOSE LEADER.

Necessary as Republicans Inject Alien Interests, Declares Progressive.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 12.—Roscoe G. Fertich, who was one of the campaign speakers for the progressive party in Indiana in 1912 and 1914, and who has been prominent in the affairs of that party, announced that he would support President Wilson for re-election. Fertich says he is ready to go on the stump for the Wilson and Marshall ticket. In his statement Fertich says:

"Regardless of the attitude of the progressive national committee or Mr. Roosevelt, I, for one, am for the re-election of President Wilson.

"Must Uphold This Coming Campaign are so clear and definite that any attempt at confusion must fail. 'Stand by the President' has been made absolutely necessary by republican party leaders injecting alien interests into the campaign. Not to support the president most certainly subjects one to the query as to a division of national allegiance. Republican leaders, by following the dictates of those Americans more interested in European politics than national pride and unity, have given prima facie evidence as to their mercenary motives.

"Before the Chicago conventions the 'stand pat' cry was 'anything to beat Teddy.' To accomplish that they desecrated the supreme court, and now in their frenzy they are willing to sacrifice national pride and patriotism as well as hyphenate 'the flag' for the sake of office.

"Will Turn State to Old Crowd. "The progressive party challenged the attention of the world by an enunciation of principles, paramount of which was to take the affairs of government from the hands of professional politicians. Mr. Roosevelt accomplished this in 1912. The election of Mr. Hughes will turn Indiana directly to identical the same hands from which, thank God, Mr. Roosevelt drenched it in 1912. As president, Mr. Hughes can accomplish absolutely nothing with such an organization against him. He has never shown skill in compromising with these forces for the accomplishment of good. His desire for re-election would naturally cause him to make the attempt."

GUILTY, IS VERDICT.

COLUMBIA, Ky., July 12.—John Davidson, who killed Felix Long at Sano, Russell county, more than two years ago, was found guilty of manslaughter today in the Russell circuit court, and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years and a day.

BATH PROVES FATAL.

FREMONT, O., July 12.—Forced to take a bath, the first in many months, and don a complete change of clothes on July 4th, John Carmody, a town character known as "Black," contracted pneumonia and died. He was highly educated.

RUNAWAYS ARRESTED.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Police today arrested Frank Weber, 27, and his 14-year-old sister-in-law, Marie Schig, both of Cincinnati, in a rooming house where they have been living for some time. The arrests were made on request of the Chicago police. The girl said her brother-in-law induced her to come to Chicago to see the "cabarets."

FORMER OHIOAN DIES.

WATERTON, N. Y., July 12.—Col. W. B. Hayden of New York, died at his summer home in the St. Lawrence river near Alexandria bay aged 70. He was formerly in the steel foundry business at Columbus, O. His estate is said to total upward of 20 millions.

NATIONAL SOLONS TO VOTE BY ELECTRIC DEVICE IN CAPITOL

Will Save Time in Calling Roll of Members on Legislation.

Russian Invents Method of Speeding Up Transaction of Business.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—In the more or less dignified, at times orderly, and always slow procedure of the house of representatives of the United States is about to be injected an element of modern mechanical efficiency. Quite literally a jump spark is to be applied to the deliberations of the lower house. It will be in the form of an electrical voting device, which will be capable of recording and adding the vote of the members present in about 34 seconds.

The average time occupied in calling the roll as done at present by the house reading clerks is about 40 minutes, for the name of every member must be read twice. A congressman with a head for mathematics estimated that 56 days were spent calling the roll during the session of one congress. It seems quite within the probabilities that this machine, if installed and successful, will save the house about one month out of every year. Senator Underwood believed that it would save $50,000 a year in light, heat and telegraph service.

As for the machine, it is the invention of E. L. Broboff, a native of Russia, a citizen of the United States, and a resident of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It has already been installed and successfully demonstrated in the hall of the Wisconsin state legislature at Madison, Wisconsin, and Mr. Broboff has also demonstrated it on a small scale in Washington. Many members of congress have already expressed themselves as favorable to its installation. Representative Howard, of Georgia, has introduced a bill providing $125,000 for the purpose; and Mr. Broboff has appeared before the committee on accounts and made a convincing statement about the working of his machine, and the need for it. He declares that it will speedily save its own cost in time, light and heat; that it will last a couple of centuries, literally never get out of order; and that one man without any electrical training can care for and operate it.

In the last analysis, the success of this machine in speeding up the house will depend upon the voters. It can record and add a vote in 34 seconds, but not unless the voters are there. Of course, a vote might be taken with only one member present; but the question which remains unsettled is whether this new method will really facilitate the gathering of quorums.

Mr. Howard, who introduced the bill, and other members who want to see the machine installed, believe that it will do so. A certain time will have to be set for the taking of the vote—say five minutes—and all members who have not pressed their buttons for yea or nay and flashed a red light or a white one on the recording board will then be considered absent. It is the hope and belief of those who want the system that its speedy operation will compel members to stay on the floor of the house if they are interested in the bill, or if they want to avoid making a record for continual absence from roll calls.

And that brings to the fore the biggest problem in the present-day deliberations of the house. Gradually, but very perceptibly it is changing from a deliberative body, where legislation is debated and formulated, to an aggregation of clerks and agents, who appoint committees to draft laws and leaders to tell them how they shall vote, and spend their own time attending to a multitude of details for various individuals.

Formerly, the house was a great deal smaller; there was no house of steel building; the members had their offices scattered all over Washington. They nearly all attended every session of congress.

Now the office building is right across the street from the capitol. During the ordinary sessions of the house, a few of the leaders, and some others will be found upon the floor, earnestly arguing. A vote is desired. Electrical bells are rung that resound through all the corridors of the house office building. The congressmen whose names begin with A, B and C leap to their feet and depart for the hall of legislation. The K's and L's, however, begin dictating another letter, while the P's and Q's and X's glance at their watches. It will be at least half an hour before their names are reached on the second roll call. They go right on studying pension claims, dispatching garden seeds and year books of the department of agriculture, drafting laws to donate condemned cannon for the city park in Padunk, or permitting John Jones to build a bridge across Frog creek in Summerville, Missouri; or appropriating a hundred and fifty thousand dollars to erect a post office at Watertank, Nevada. The congressmen have to do these things in order to hold their jobs.

The great majority of them spend the great majority of their time doing little things for individuals and countries and towns. They give a small fraction of their time to national affairs. The leaders who really give most of their time to national legislation spend a great deal more than the government allows them for clerk hire, and they are veterans of many sessions experience, whose seats are very secure.

There is one young congressman who says that he never misses a session of the house. He explains that he dictates all of his letters at home every night. All morning he spends in the departments prosecuting the numerous claims for which every congressman is the unwilling advocate. This leaves him from noon, when the house convenes until evening for attendance to the business of the nation. He works about 16 hours a day. There are few others who can do it, and still fewer who will. So congress is literally becoming a gathering of pre-occupied agents, who line up well enough on party votes, but by force of circumstance, give the country less and less of the independent thought upon national questions which is the life of legislations.

The Broboff electrical voting machine may work a considerable modification of this tendency by compelling the congressman to be close at hand if he is going to vote at all, and by saving a month or so of time for him out of every session.

Two other changes have been suggested as accompaniments of the electrical device. One is the abolishment of the electrical bells which now announce every vote, and disturb everybody on Capitol Hill. The other is the restoration of the desks, which were replaced not long ago by long benches much like those in a railway waiting room. It is argued that if the congressman has a place in the legislative hall where he can work, he is more apt to remain there. It is certainly true that the benches now in use offer the congressman little in the way of either comfort or opportunity for work.

One somewhat revolutionary effect of the electrical voter will be the abolition of the revered filibuster. This consists in delaying business by repeatedly making the point of no quorum, necessitating the calling of the roll, and delaying the business of the house 40 minutes. Then, before much progress is made, the point is repeated. In this way, one member can interfere with the work of the house, while a minority may even force a compromise from the majority.

Notwithstanding that the filibuster is a terrible waste of time, it has generally been regarded as one of the rights of the minority. The hearing on the Howard bill brought out some interesting side lights on the subject. The chairman of the committee remarked that "a man who makes a point or order does it out of some pique."

"A man who wants to speak is not allowed to speak, and then he makes the house pay for it, and he can do it very readily," he explained. That is generally the gist of a filibuster in the house. The filibuster is like the little boy at the back lot base ball game who wants to pitch, and isn't allowed to, so he runs off with the catcher's mitt.

The Broboff device, if installed, would consist simply in a big board, or perhaps two of them, much like an electrical score board, where each congressman's name would appear, with a red bulb and a white one after it. At each congressman's elbow would be a couple of buttons, which could be pressed only with the aid of a key in his possession. When the vote has been announced, he would press his yes or nay button at any time within the specified period. He could also change his vote any time within that period. The machine would then automatically add the vote and show the result.

There would be about 70 miles of copper wire in the machine, and copper is at present selling at a very high price because of the war. This fact, operating in conjunction with the legislative desire to appear economical, may postpone the installation; but electrical voting is almost sure to become the accepted method for legislative bodies.

REFUTE REPUBLICAN CALAMITY PROPHECY BY THE REAL FACTS

Leader Mann's Dire Forecasts Overthrown by Prosperity.

American Labor Receives $1,700,000,000 More Than in 1910, Estimate.

The calamity predictions of republican orators in 1912, who told of horrors that would befall American workingmen under a democratic administration make interesting reading at this time.

Here are some extracts from the speech delivered by Congressman James R. Mann, minority leader of the house, August 2, 1913, and distributed as a campaign eulogy on "The Republican Party":

"They (democratic measures) would add to wages paid abroad; they would add to labor here; they would add to happiness to the foreign laborer and cause notices of decrease of wages to the American laborer."

Decrease in Idle Labor. The fact is, that since the inauguration of the democratic administration on March 4, 1913, idle labor in all American industries—agriculture, mines, mills, and occupations generally—had decreased, as shown by the reports of the labor and employment bureau of the country, over 50 per cent by March, 1916, and is now almost unknown. This applies not only in those industries which manufacture war goods, but in agriculture, railways, and all other occupations, in which war in Europe is not involved.

Instead of "notices of decrease of wages," the press for two years past has been filled with notices of wage increases without precedent in the world's history. It is estimated that over 1,500 increases affecting perhaps 4,000,000 workmen have been made during the past year.

Lurid Prophecies Defeated. Congressman Mann predicted in 1912 that democratic legislation "would mean cutting off the profits and cutting down the wages; would mean strikes and riots and starvation and hell for the wage-earner and his family, destruction for the manufacturer, and damnation for the home industry."

In spite of this lurid prophecy, however, the American people, including the great army of American labor, cast 6,293,019 votes for Woodrow Wilson as against 3,484,956 for the republican high tariff nominee, W. H. Taft. And what happened to Leader Mann's predictions? The manufactured product of the United States is estimated at $30,000,000,000 as compared with $20,000,000,000 in the census of 1910. The capital invested in American manufactures is placed at $26,500,000,000 against the former $18,400,000,000. The corporate income of the country for 1916 is estimated at $5,000,000,000 against $3,200,000,000 in 1912.

U. S. NEUTRALITY

The arrival of the German merchant submarine "Deutschland" appears the best fortune which the United States could have asked during the present war. It offers the nation an opportunity to convince the Germans, and more especially the American Germans, that their wild ravings about American neutrality are totally unfounded.

Throughout the present European struggle we have read extracts from German papers, we have inferred from Berlin diplomatic correspondence, and we have heard from the Germans in this country that "Wilson is an Englishman and the United States is with the allies". This is because the president refused to break the rules of international warfare by an embargo on arms which excluded only one customer.

Usage as old as the German Empire and as firmly established in international law as the right of blockade is the agreement, to which Germany is a party, that no neutral is obligated to refuse supplies to one belligerent as long as no refusal is made to the opposite belligerent. Germany has been unable to come here for arms and munitions. England has held control of the seas and soon forced all German merchantmen to internment. That is not our fault, and as Germany has not applied here for her munitions we have not refused her. Therefore she has no just "kick" if we dispose of our goods in the Entente camp. All criticisms should be directed toward the German navy at Kiel.

With a success-fail trans Atlantic trip, however, bringing a submarine capable of carrying back a cargo from Baltimore, the Germans have presented an opportunity for sale. Washington regards the "Deutschland" as a merchant ship and unless she remains over time she will not be interned. If we sell to the Imperial government a cargo of arms, munitions or other contraband she can be no more accusation of a neutrality or favoritism. That just what will happen and the man who calls the United States a partisan after Germany has been so supplies here will merely convict himself of ignorance, malice or disloyalty.

"HOW ABOUT 1912?"

Do you recall how the Democratic party used to be characterized back before 1898, by the familiar question: "Where were you in '96," and how every candidate for town ship trustee or anything on up the ladder would face that question. That was the time when the political parties created by the split of twenty years ago were still acute, the Breauite arguing that no allyment of the Palmer Buckner ticket deserved support.

The Republican now have the same phenomenon in their ranks but the name is not so loud. Party regularity is less of a tenet today and the average voter exercises greater independence in voting as conscience and not the organization, may dictate. But in the Daugherty Herndon race for the Republican senatorial nomination there is evidence of the same tactics. The adherents of the former chairman, who stepped in to save the remnants in 1912 and stuck to the ship after the desertion of Chairman Brown and other Republican leaders, declares that "no man who was neutral in 1912 can expect the support of the Republican party". It is really rather unfair to throw this up to Herndon, for he was in France as the appointee of Taft and could not take part in the fight with the Progressives on this side of the water. But the statement is to create an adverse impression in getting around it, however, Myron's friends merely ask if Daugherty refers to Hughes, who was also neutral because of his place on the Supreme Bench.

The scrap will be just warm enough to elect Pomerene, at the rate it is progressing. But the Republicans who used to rejoice when a Gold Bug and a Free Silverite opposed one another in the Democratic party now realize the harm which comes to a party which keeps alive factional fights by perpetuating obsolete issues.

Every college man in the United States has read of Dan Fries, the star West Point tackle who was picked by Walter Camp for the mythical All American eleven a few years ago. And every Ohio sportsman of the fascinating gridiron sport knows about "Teddy" Bachr, captain of the University of Cincinnati and the best fullback in the state three years ago. Both went to Camp Willis as members of Troop C of Cincinnati and both have been rejected by federal medical examiners. Rigid physical training appears to be good only as long as it is kept up.

The total omission of the Detroit statement of Ford in favor of President Wilson was to be expected from the Republican press. But wasn't the declaration of the head of the government, introducing new material into a diplomatic question and contributing a new phase to an important problem, any news value whatever?

John J. Lentz has opened his campaign against Senator Pomerene in an autobiographical sketch in the weekly Columbus Times. It is called "Ohio's Great Fraternalist". It does not add that his fraternalism is a lucrative source of revenue. Being fraternal may be profitable if work is a steady game.

Hughes adherents are handing out such stuff as "Lincoln was not too proud to fight." At a rough guess we will venture the assertion, "without fear of successful contradiction, that the men who peddle that line are not going to go so far as to indicate war as the Hughes platform."

Appropriate and timely in view of the "Buckeye" devotion of his Arm golden rule are the lines of Robert Browning aimed at a contemporary poet:
Just for a handful of silver he left us,
Just for a hand to stick in his coat.
Rudolph A. Mack, one of the Republican candidates for the governorship, promises to clean Cincinnati. Knowing the Queen City as we do we feel safe in predicting that Cincinnati will probably clean Rudolph.

GOOD EVENING: Yes, it's warm enough for us.

NEW MOVIELAND

By DAISY DEAN

BEVERLY BAYNE of the Metro "company," identified for a long time with the Esplanade, is one of the most popular women in moving pictures. Miss Bayne was born in Minneapolis, Minn., on the 22d of November, 1894. She received her education in Minneapolis, Philadelphia and Chicago. Before entering motion pictures she directed principally toward getting an education. Those who know her say she did very, very well in that respect. While still a school girl a friend of hers took her to the Esplanade company in Chicago. One of the directors attracted by her beauty and intelligence told her if she would like to come out some day and pose for a picture. Did she want to? Girls! Well, anyhow, she went, and was engaged almost immediately, and played the lead in her first picture, "The Loan Shark." Miss Bayne is fond of dancing and outdoor sports of all kinds. She does considerable work as her dreammaking too, and is altogether a most attractive and charming young woman to meet. No, she is not married. Heaven knows how she has escaped this long.

Robert Edeson in "Fathers of Men." In "Fathers of Men," a forthcoming Vitaphone feature, Robert Edeson appears in a dual role, first as John Howland, a trapper, at the age of 35, next as the same man 20 years later, and then, as Robert, the 25-year-old son of John Howland. As John Howland his life is embittered when Blake, a trader, runs away with his wife while he is at a nearby hospital having his son treated for a spinal ailment. He vows vengeance, but it is not until 20 years later that he next meets his enemy.

This time, it is under conditions favorable to his revenge, for he finds him by the body of a murdered man, and though he knows that Blake did not commit the murder, he succeeds in having him convicted. Robert Howland's son, implores his father to halt this terrible thing, but Howland remains firm. When, in trying to escape, Blake is shot and killed, his three sons avenge their father's death by killing Howland. Robert sets out after them to settle his score, but after many thrilling adventures, in which the Blakes prove themselves his friends, the feud is peacefully ended.

Eulalia Jensen claims that the greatest mental rest possible is variety and intellectual effort. When on the stage she took up the study of botany as a foil to the immense amount of memory work she was forced to do. Higher mathematics supplanted botany, and after progressing through differential calculus and analytical geometry, the star has now taken to astronomy, or so she says.

HEALTH HINTS

REGULAR SLEEP HELPS TO KEEP THE BABY WELL

Proper sleep keeps babies off the ill list during the trying hot months of summer.

Young babies should sleep the greater part of the time. If they do not there is something wrong. As the baby grows older he learns to sleep longer at night and less in the daytime.

If the mother gives some attention to training him the baby soon can learn to sleep at about the same time every day.

Regularity in the sleeping habit is one of the best ways to keep baby well.

Helps Mother, Too.

When baby sleeps at regular periods it also enables the mother to attend to many household duties for which she would not find time if baby was cross and restless and refused to sleep.

Baby should take a long sleep in the morning, stay awake for an hour or two in the middle of the day and then take another nap in the afternoon.

Then, if kept awake during the latter part of the afternoon the child will be tired enough to sleep soundly during the night.

In Bed By Six.

By 6 o'clock all good, healthy babies should be in bed. The windows of the room in which baby sleeps should be opened to permit plenty of fresh air to circulate through the room. This is just as important in keeping baby well as plenty of sleep is.

When baby cries at night do not take him up unless it is feeding time or his diaper needs changing.

Turn baby over from time to time so that he sleeps alternately on the right and the left side. This helps to keep the head development normal.

Breast milk is the greatest safeguard against illness among babies.

SALONICA.

As a pawn in the game of empires being played across the water, Salonica has attracted a great deal of attention lately. As a quaint and unusual city it has hardly gotten the attention that it is due.

You are told of Salonica's strategic value, and the defenses that the allies are throwing up in the plains around it. You are shown pictures taken from military aeroplanes gliding over the white houses, but no one has seen fit to mention that Salonica is really a Spanish city in the Orient. The language of two-thirds of the people, and the one understood by all, is a form of Spanish, and it is commonly printed in Hebrew characters.

A great part of the population of Salonica is descended from the Jews of Spain, who fled eastward to escape the Inquisition, and the way they have clung to the language of their lost fatherland and the memories of it is remarkable and pathetic. Children are still told tales of the wonders of Spain, and several of the synagogues are named after Spanish cities. It is a curious fact that it is impossible to convince most of these people that they are free to return safely to Spain today if they will. They cling to the belief that their religion is still anathema in the peninsula, and go on printing their Spanish papers in Hebrew letters and signing as a race in exile.

The rest of the people of Salonica are a heterogeneous mass, drawn

SHE SPOILED HER DAUGHTER.

THE IN THE RAINING

Somewhere in the suburbs of New York live a man and wife, happily married, with one child. The husband has a job that brings a fairly good income and the wife keeps the house and takes care of the baby. Both are well bred. He was a southern gentleman; she is the daughter of well-to-do parents, went to boarding school, is handsome and accomplished. She learned everything a girl should know but the one essential thing, how to make a home. Her mother had her maid. The daughter's clothes were always ready and her mending done. Her youthful years were spent in having a good time and learning the art of being a lady.

She married. Now she must run a home. She doesn't know how. Her husband gives her $135 a month for the house. Because she never learned to cook and can't afford a cook, they must take their dinners out. Therefore Mr. Husband comes home, takes care of the baby while Mrs. Wife rushes half a mile to a boarding house, sets her dinner in a hurry and rushes back; then he hurries half a mile to the boarding house and gets his rag-and-dinner. Her generous allowance is gone when the month is up and it has brought no satisfaction. They have no "homey" meals together; they blame the baby—they ought to blame her mother.

Had this wife been brought up to be a woman instead of just a lady, she would take that $30 they spend every month for boarding house dinners and get two meals a day for two that would make the boarding house dinners look like a banquet lunch. But she doesn't know how. She doesn't study her job. She can't save her energy. The time and effort spent to get to the boarding house and back, the dressing, the annoyance and the worry would more than get the meal, and a better one, and clear it away. She doesn't want to be merely a lady, she would rather be a woman; now it's too late—she's spoiled!

But it's not altogether her fault. She wasn't trained right. She is a parlor ornament and not a thrifty wife. She can't save. She can just be sweet; but sweetness never runs a home. It's good for dessert, but a home is made of beefsteak and potatoes and pies and puddings that "touch the spot" and the old saying is as true now as ever, that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach," and lucky the woman who has found it out.

Don't spoil your daughter in the raising. Teach her to look upon housekeeping as an art—a science, worthy of a place in the school curriculum, and absolutely essential to the comfort and well being of a home. If the wife is a woman, she will be a lady, but she can't be a lady and only a big doll.

from Greece and Turkey and half the near east. The Spanish Jew is the only type who stamps his mark sharply and clearly on the life of the city. After him, for an object of interest you must turn to the ruins of the past, the old arches and gates built by the Romans, looking down in austere disapproval on the noisy and undignified Turkish life swirling at their feet.

Salonica Bay is a pretty sight at any time, with its curious collection of hybrid eastern craft bobbing at anchor or scuttling about. And today there is one of the finest sights to be seen that any sea can offer—the low gray war-ships rocking on the swells, dipping their knife-like bows in the blue water. Impatient, efficient, epitomes of manning power and grace.

Buy Life Insurance This Way--

Consider first—the maximum proportion of your salary available for the purchase of Life Insurance. Second, the minimum income that, in decency and self-respect, you would provide for your wife when you are gone. Necessarily, the older a man is when he buys Life Insurance the smaller the income his family will receive from the Life Insurance he can afford to buy. Young men especially, between the age of 20 and 30, should consider this most carefully. Buy Life Insurance Big, right now, when the proportion of your income available for the purchase of Life Insurance is large, and the premium rate is low. A Premium Savings Account makes Life Insurance easy to buy.

KILLS HER HUSBAND IN DOMESTIC ROW

NEWARK, N. J., July 12.—Friends of Mrs. Margaret Beutinger, who shot her husband to death in their magnificent home at Caldwell, yesterday, rallied to her support today to secure her release on bail that she might return to her five children. It is the contention of Mrs. Beutinger and her friends that her act was justifiable.

The self-widowed woman declares that her husband tried to gouge her eyes out, choked her and often threatened to end her life.

At the home at Caldwell the Beutinger children anxiously awaited the return of their mother from the Newark jail. Little five year old Mary said:

"My mamma has gone away, but she'll be back today. My papa is dead and gone to heaven. Mamma killed him; that's why she went away. Papa and mamma had been mad at each other."

ONE OHIO BRIGADE TO LEAVE THIS WEEK

Funston Inquires as to the Machine Equipment of O. N. G.

CAMP WILLIS, Ohio, July 12.—Major Means this afternoon telegraphed Chicago with a request to relay the message to General Funston at Houston that all six regiments are provided with machine gun companies and that the equipment is four guns to a company.

Regimental commanders today were expecting orders to leave behind the nucleus of a battalion to recruit a fourth battalion for each of the six regiments in the two brigades. It is planned to promote one of the captains in each regiment to major and leave him at home to fill the fourth battalion.

Colonel B. L. Bargar of the Fourth, said that one officer from each company probably would be left in addition to the major. The men will be instructed to recruit enough men to fill up the regiment to war strength of 141 men to a company, as well as to provide for vacancies made by illness and death.

Rev. A. J. Funnell of Norwalk, today passed the physical examination and duly qualified as chaplain of the Fifth regiment.

CAMP WILLIS, July 12.—Brigadier General John C. Speaks today predicted that the Fourth, Fifth and Eighth regiments of infantry, constituting the Second brigade, which he commands, will be en route to the border by the end of the week.

The prediction was based on a telegram received today from Adjutant Fitch of the western department, Chicago:

"General Funston requests that commanding officers of Ohio regiments that have not left your camp, wire whether or not they are equipped with machine guns."

This message was interpreted by camp officials to indicate that General Funston has asked for the Ohio troops as quickly as possible and that orders for movement by regiments had been prepared and would be flashed from Chicago as soon as Major R. W. Means, chief ministering officer, reported them "reasonably prepared."

CARRANZA STILL HOLDS POWER AT CHIHUAHUA CITY

Perishing forces, but this is known to be a fact: Between Ojo Frederico and Colonia Dublan a comparative light rain fell. The herald of the true rainy season made a ditch full of water 32 inches deep. Officers' light cars have been able to make the journey only with difficulty, and the supply trucks find the going impossible.

Three trains are held at Columbus because it is impossible to force them through the muddy road. Pershing himself is at Colonia Dublan with the seventh, tenth and eleventh regiments of cavalry, the sixteenth and twenty-fourth infantry and a battery of field artillery. At Joaquin, 40 miles to the north, he has a company of engineers and the seventeenth infantry engaged in a mighty effort to rebuild the thoroughfares.

Remounts are waiting at Columbus to be sent forward. Until the roads are made passable, it seems that the expedition may have to depend on Carranza's permission to send supplies by Mexican railroads which is a most unsatisfactory thing upon which to rely for the support of an expedition.

Censorship has been put into working order to screen much news that might be of interest about the militia. But it may be said that the principal problem of the army men is keeping the guardsmen occupied.

The most serious affliction of the mobilization threatened the first Pennsylvania cavalry. It was—or were—measles. On its way across the country, Private Earl D. Ludwig, of Troop K., was found to be suffering from measles at Kansas City. He was detained there. A day or so earlier his bunkie, Ernest Butt, had been taken off the train at Cincinnati with a similar case. There has been fear that this would mean epidemic, but the Pennsylvania boys passed inspection nicely upon their arrival in El Paso.

Today they boast that "there is not a measles in the camp."

The Pennsylvania boys also claim to have the transcontinental baling record, having dipped successfully in the Potomac, the Ohio river and a lake in Missouri.

The militiamen are being assigned to border patrol posts and look forward eagerly to any kind of duty that takes them nearer to Mexico.

Mrs. Edward Collins was removed from her home at 771 South Union street, to the City hospital.

J. W. Kersey was taken from the City hospital to his home at 221 West Vine street.

Mrs. George Pond was removed from the City hospital to her home at 708 South Union street, this afternoon.

The Eckert invalid coach removed William Taylor from the Erie railroad station at 11:30 o'clock this morning to his home at 307 1-2 South Main street. He had been at a hospital in Marion, O., taking treatment.

George Feltz, cashier of the German-American bank, will leave today for Battle Creek, Mich., where he will spend a few weeks trying to build up his health.

NOTED CONVICT IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

CLEVELAND, O., July 12.—Mrs. Isabel Ritter today filed suit in insolvency court asking a divorce from her husband, Emerich W. Ritter, a prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary.

She charges he has been guilty of gross neglect of duty since November 20, 1915, when he was sent to the penitentiary and asks the custody of their son, Emerich, 18.

Ritter, who styled himself the inventor of "liquid fire," was arrested by federal officers following activity in which he was said to have obtained money falsely by "working in the interests" of Austro-Hungary through the consul here.

After an unsuccessful search through the city records Mayor Simpson turned the case over to Charles Young who is said to have a slight recollection of the family.

PLATFORM OF DEMOCRACY IS PUT INTO STATUTE LAW

Analysis Shows Unrivalled Record of Promises Redeemed by President's Administration—Action Instead of Empty G. O. P. Phrases.

In his letter to the progressive national committee, largely devoted to a discussion of the support given by the German-American Alliance to Mr. Hughes and the reasons for his own defeat, Colonel Roosevelt included the following characteristic statement:

It is folly to pay heed to any of the promises in the platform on which he (President Wilson) now stands, in view of the fact that almost every important promise on which he stood four years ago has since been broken.

It is a maxim of the courts that when a witness is false in one statement he may be regarded as false in all.

The democratic party, in its platform of 1912, promised tariff reform, and tariff reform is now a fact. It promised additional and more constructive laws for the regulation of corporations and the Clayton anti-trust law is the result.

Direct Elections and Income Tax.

The platform commented upon the passage by Congress of an amendment to the constitution to permit the enactment of an income tax law and another amendment providing for the direct election of senators—the resolutions for the two amendments having been put through by the democratic party—and both laws are now written upon the statute books.

There was a plank for banking and currency reform and the promise has had its fulfillment in the best banking system ever given to the people of the United States and is generally approved by the financial world.

A rural credits system was promised to the farmers of the country who had been promised such reform by the republican party for 20 years without fulfillment. As a result of the ascendancy of the democratic party as power, as a result of President Wilson's leadership, both branches of Congress have now passed a rural credits measure which eventually will enable tenant farmers to own their own land without encumbrance. The democratic measure was passed almost unanimously in both branches, the republicans being obliged to give it their approval.

Agricultural Co-operation With States.

Another of the important planks in the democratic platform was one advocating agricultural co-operation with the states. Such co-operation, with a new and modern marketing system, federal aid in road building and other aids to the farmer, is now a reality.

Justice to labor and the conservation of the rights of labor were promised in the platform of 1912, and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has said that more was done for the laboring people under the leadership of President Wilson and under the democratic party than under any previous administration.

Conservation of the natural resources of the country was promised.

No Domestic Policies Challenged.

So complete has been the president's success in handling domestic problems that no domestic issue has been raised against him. In the absence of domestic issues, his opponents have tried to find an issue in the still delicate situation involving the peace and honor of the nation which the president, with a statesmanship in harmony with the best traditions of the United States, has been upholding.

Forcing the respect of the world and compelling the recognition of American rights, twice compelled to raise the mailed fist, the president has left no doubt that America, more powerful but with the same spirit that prevailed in '76, stands ready to defend with lives and treasure its new-found freedom and its old-time honor.

The president and the democratic party enter the present campaign, challenging comparison of its promises and performances with the promises and performances of the republican party in the days when it was the dominant party.

It challenges comparison of the military, naval, industrial, economic and spiritual preparations of the past three years with the weak structures that were left to President Wilson as a heritage from his immediate predecessors. It challenges comparison of its deeds with the vague promises of those who have fumbled in their efforts to find an issue.

CAPTAIN CREPS LOOKS FOR BOXES

Reports Condition of Boys is Good at Big Capital City Camp.

Captain Clark Creps of Company C arrived in the city last night from Columbus. He is seeking several boxes of equipment that in some manner became lost during the journey of the local troops to the capital city.

He reported the condition of the company as a whole, good, although some of them have been complaining of the heat. Several cases of sickness were reported in the company a few days after the arrival there. This he states was due to the manner in which peanuts, ice cream and other delicacies were consumed.

Creps claims that from present indications it is evident that the mobilization camp will be in order for some time. This is predicted.

from the extensive preparations that are being made to take care of the regiments of the state.

Large mess halls to take care of all troops of the state are being constructed and will be ready for occupancy within a week. Everything is being arranged for the comfort of the men.

Creps states that all of the boys are nursing sore arms as a result of the serum treatment which they underwent. Under the direction of the hospital corps attached to each regiment, everyone in the camp has been subjected to the treatment.

How to Prevent Croup.

Every effort should be made to prevent the attacks by giving the child a light supper and plenty of fresh air at all times. The child should be warmly clad when out of doors. Especially the feet should be well protected and under no circumstances should the child be allowed to remain with wet or cold feet. Then watch for the first symptoms, hoarseness, and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at once and the attack may be ward off. This remedy is a favorite with the mothers or croupy children and can always be depended upon. It is pleasant and safe to take. Obtainable everywhere.

VACATION TIME

"The Mustard-seed with diamond eyes

Taught us to be laughter-wise
And he showed us how that time
Is much less powerful than a rhyme;
And that Space is but a dream."

SO SINGS Alfred Noyes in his poem "The Forest of Wild Thyme" and so most of us are yearning to sing in the cool depth of some wood or on the beach of the ocean or the lake. Just to get away from these hot, baked streets, the seeming endless grind of work, and go some place where there is nothing more arduous than the hum of the bee, where green meadows stretch out before us instead of paved streets, and the air is full of rest and peace, where there is neither rush, nor reason.

And so, with all this in our blood, we pack our belongings and seek out this place that is calling us. And, oh, the bliss of the first week, and the first half of the next week, but by the end of the second week we are glad to come back to the "seamless grind." We come back full of stories, eager to spring them on our less fortunate sister, who has yet a month to wait for her time of "vacating." Any way we are the happier for having been happy, and much more congenial, for after all, according to Mark Twain, "It is human environment that makes climate."

The moral of this story if there is one is that all of us should take a vacation, if only for a few days, if only to the swing in the garden of our homes, its best tonic for fagged brains there is. And as for dispositions—well, that depends on the mosquitoes.

TIPS FROM TEXTS.

(Dallas News.)
One mistake the stagey woman makes is in believing she can make a hit by throwing a fit.

Of course, the women introduce a lot of funny styles, but how about the ice man who wears a leather bib on his back?

Sometimes we are almost persuaded that if hard luck couldn't overtake us any other way it would use a motorcycle.

Judging by her facial expression, the girl on the back seat of a motorcycle isn't enjoying herself.

Of course, there are two sides to every question, but as a rule a man doesn't need high-priced socks when he wears high-topped boots.

If it wasn't for the fool and his money, there would be more honest people in the world.

Wise is the man who realizes that of two evils, it isn't absolutely necessary to choose either.

It's the little things that count, but don't lose sight of the fact that the biggest fish get away.

PERSONALITIES I HAVE MET

MINNIE MADDERN FISKE.

Copyright 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

ONCE when I was a little girl and was very unhappy because I was relegated to the background and kept there while the grown-ups enjoyed themselves, I decided that in order to attract attention I must do something unusual. Long I pondered as to whether it would be better for me to be suddenly taken very ill, to have a terrible tantrum or to be so good and quiet they would all notice it and feel very sorry for me.

I decided upon the latter course by way of being original, and so long and so still did I sit there in one pose, gazing sadly ahead of me, that one by one they left their comfortable chairs to come over and sympathize in a most solicitous manner.

But the old character man of the company studied me with twinkling eyes, nor was he deceived a minute.

"This reminds me of a story I once heard about Minnie Maddern Fiske," he began, "when she was a little girl about Mary's age. Even when a child she was always a dominant spirit, who commanded and demanded attention. It was she whose guiding hand ruled the other children of the neighborhood—it was she who was always the interesting and active center of attraction."

"But one day some new kiddies moved into the neighborhood and in the excitement the lights of this scintillating little girl were dimmed. For a long, long time she sat in the corner with her face buried in her hands and stared with her great, stary eyes at the group of laughing, noisy children who gathered around the new neighbors, and she wondered what she could possibly do that would suddenly center all the interest upon herself.

"The mother of the new little girls, eager to make her children popular with the neighbors' children, came out and joined the group, offering as a great promotion of friendship to take them to the candy shop around the corner and buy ice cream for all.

"It was a sultry day—the regular ice cream days of summer—and little Minnie Maddern followed them unhappily to the store. All were noisy and clamoring for their particular kind of cream, with the exception of little Miss Maddern, who looked indifferent and unconcerned. 'What will you have?' they asked her eagerly, and her eyes grew as round as saucers as she glanced slowly across the room to the counter where the great freezers were disgorging their contents. How good it looked, so coolly pink and white!

"But she drew her lips down into a little, thin line and replied laconically, 'I don't care for ice cream—thank you.'

"No ice cream?' came the astonished echo—while she gazed at them triumphantly.

"No ice cream!' She was resolute. Not even when the spoons clinked in the dishes and the tears stood in her eyes because the desire for ice cream was strong upon her would she falter in her purpose to sit there alone, the stuff martyrs are made of, but the center of consolation and attraction."

Nor has Minnie Maddern Fiske ever resigned her position as center of interest, for today she is regarded as one of our greatest actresses. I have just seen her in her latest play and her characterization of "Erstwhile Susan" was delicious. I carried away memories of her in her little old-fashioned dresses which made me think of miniatures painted by old masters.

I was at the Famous Players' studio the time Mrs. Fiske came there to be starred in one of her famous stage successes, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles". While she was one of the greatest artists in makeup for the stage, she was quite confused by the different manner in which we apply makeup for the camera.

When she saw her first tests and did not like them, the director asked her if she objected to my showing her how we applied the grease paint and the blacking around our eyes. She assured him she would be delighted and I was really very much complimented to be of service to her.

Later Mrs. Fiske granted me the privilege of watching her wonderful emotional work during the taking of the picture, because on this, her first appearance before the camera, she was quite nervous and could not give vent to her emotions before a crowd of whispering onlookers. She found it as confusing as most stars do, coming from the stage to the studio.

We were very much disappointed when she did not do "Vanity Fair" at our studio, as we would have been interested in every scene of that beautiful old Trackeray novel, with its wonderful character of Becky Sharp made famous on the stage by Mrs. Fiske.

Some of Mrs. Fiske's other great stage successes which I have had the pleasure of seeing and enjoying are Ibsen's "Doll's House", "Hedda Gabler", "The Pillars of Society", "Mrs. Burdette Leigh", and "Salvation Nell".

Answers to Correspondents

T. P. W.—Peacocks are considered by superstitious actors and actresses to bring bad luck, but in the Far East they are considered very lucky and desirable. I am not afraid of wearing opals, either.

Master Harry Dean—The favorite books of my childhood were Louisa Alcott, revised histories of famous queens and kings, "The Birds' Christmas Carol", and Dickens' works.

Ambitious—Shakespeare's "Macbeth", just made into a picture by the Triangle company, under the direction of John Emerson, is a splendid and worth-while production.

Henry T.—There is no need to be puzzled. "The Fall of a Nation" was made after the "Birth of a Nation" and is produced by Thomas Dixon, author of the "Clansman", around which "The Birth of a Nation" was built.

Hazel K.—I would like to spend the summer at Bar Harbor, but think my vacation days are over for this year.

John P.—No, I have never played with the Metro company. It was Mary Miles Minter you saw in "Lovely Mary".

CLOTHES AND THE MAN.

An amusing incident occurred last week in a certain British government office during the medical examination of members of the staff eligible for military service. The men disrobed in an anteroom and on entering the presence of the doctors one of them was found to be suffering from gout, whereupon one of the medics, no doubt having in mind the traditional high salary and easy time of the average civil servant, solemnly adjured him to give up port and high living. The funny thing about it was that the person lectured happened to be the office coal porter, whose meager salary barely provides for the necessities of life.—Exchange.

ANOTHER GHOST LAID.

John McGuire, a person who does not believe in specters or anything like specters, was lying in bed, waiting to be devoured by sleep, when, in turning over, he happened to open his eyes. Behold! something that almost scared him to death. He could hardly move with fright. He watched it for a few seconds. According to his story, it was a ghost, that raised its hand every little while and pointed toward him. Plucking up nerve, he got out of bed and made for Friend Specter. It raised its arm and pointed at him again. He shrank back, but when he made another move in its direction the arm went up again. McGuire made a lunge and grabbed it.

It was his shirt. He had placed it on the back of a chair close to a window, and the wind did the rest.—Exchange.

REGISTRY OF BIRTH AND DEATHS BY U. S. CENSUS

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Director Sam L. Rogers, of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, has just issued in pamphlet form a paper entitled "The Federal Registration Service of the United States: Its Development, Problems, and Defects," prepared by Cressy L. Wilbur, M. D., formerly chief statistician for vital statistics, Bureau of Census, and now director of vital statistics, New York state department of health, in which are set forth many interesting and significant facts in reference to the growth of birth and death registration in this country.

The United States has lagged far behind the more progressive foreign countries in the matter of maintaining reliable records of births, death, and sickness. The importance of such records as aids in sanitation and the safeguarding of health is little appreciated by the average citizen, and in many cases by state and municipal authorities. Yet it should be fairly obvious that much more intelligent and effective efforts can be made for the prevention or suppression of any disease if accurate records are available in respect to its prevalence and the number of fatalities caused by it. Furthermore, the problems arising in connection with the rapid increase of certain classes of population and the decrease, or alleged decrease, of certain other classes can be discussed and handled much more intelligently if accurate records of both births and deaths are available. Fortunately, there has been in recent years a gratifying increase in the interest taken by state and municipal authorities in the recording of vital statistics.

Registration a State Function.

The great obstacle to the satisfactory and efficient recording of such statistics in this country is one which is peculiar to our form of government. Under the constitution the registration of vital records is a matter which must be left to the individual state governments. As Dr. Wilbur says:

"The chief defects and therefore the resulting problems of federal registration of vital statistics are due to the nature of the development of the work in this country, the dependence of the general government upon the states for the adoption and enforcement of laws, and the lack of control of the means of registration. Hence the efforts of the bureau of census, in co-operation with the state authorities, have been directed to the promotion of adequate legislation and the standardization of the records made thereunder."

"The history of the registration of vital statistics in the United States has been that of a most valuable and necessary institution of modern society neglected amid more or less pioneer and primitive conditions. There was little thought of making permanent records of individuals in the rapid march of civilization across the continent. There was comparatively little need, for many a citizen of the United States has been born and has died without once having been required during the elementary evidence depending on such records. American life was purely individualistic. . . .

"We are changing all this—and we can not contemplate all features of the change without a sigh of regret. As people come into closer contact in our crowded communities, vital records are of increasing importance to protect the rights and insure the privileges of the individual. Schools are overcrowded; child labor must be prevented; widows with minor children receive pensions from the state—perhaps old age pensions are coming; in a multitude of ways the state is entering into the daily life of the people and requiring records of births and marriages and deaths for the interest of the individual."

At the time of the adoption of the constitution no country in the world had provided for registration of births and death as a governmental undertaking. The first records of deaths in New York City are for 1804. In 1842 Massachusetts passed the first state registration law of modern type, it being a direct consequence of the enactment of the English law of 1837, which made vital statistics the foundation of modern sanitary progress.

Death Registration in 1890.

Although statistics of births and deaths, based on information gathered by the census enumerators, had been compiled and published at each decennial census, beginning with that for 1850, it was not until 1880 that any of the data collected were obtained from registration records. In that year the census bureau based its mortality statistics for Massachusetts and New Jersey and for New York City and a number of other large cities outside of these two states upon their state and municipal records, accepting them as substantially correct. Although in square miles this death-registration area represented but an insignificant fraction of the entire United States, its population was 17 per cent of the total for the country. In 1890 and 1900 the area was extended, and in the latter year its population represented more than 40 per cent of the total for the United States.

Annual Statistics of Death.

In 1900 there was begun the annual collection of death statistics from the registration area, which has been added to from year to year until it now embraces 36 states and contains 44 per cent of the land area and 70 per cent of the population of the United States. All the northern states of the Mississippi river, save only Illinois, are included, together with the five southern states of Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, and North and South Carolina (the Carolinas having been admitted in 1916), the central states of Minnesota, Missouri and Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Washington and California. On the south the area now extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific without a break except that made by Nevada; and on the north the only gaps are those made by Concert: Colangelo's Musicians of Boston.

Illustrated Travel-talk: "The Republics to the South", Dr. G. Whitehead Ray, F. R. G. S.

Chronophotographs: Lima Town and People in the Camera's Eye.

The time has finally arrived. The big chatauqua, to be held in Lima for seven days, will open tomorrow under a large tent in Faurot park. The program to be given is one of the best ever arranged in the United States for a similar event.

The opening attraction for the chatauqua is Colangelo's Famous Italian musicians. It is a big company, in numbers and musical ability, and might with all propriety be featured as a star attraction. It has been chosen to open this great week of entertainment and inspiration with vim and snap. The band and orchestral numbers have a lilt and jingle to them, and Colangelo's direction of his musicians in a joy. There's solos, duets, novelties, ensemble numbers, all rarely well done, and carefully chosen to meet the demand of a popular audience. Then two great soloists furnish a joyous surprise with vocal numbers. These singers give splendid interpretation to the Neapolitan and folk songs which are the charm of Italian music.

In the evening Colangelo's musicians give a second concert. Dr. G. Whitehead Ray, fellow of the Royal Geographical society, will give an illustrated travel-talk on "The Republics to the South".

Dr. Ray is the celebrated explorer who spent fourteen years in exploration work in South America, and whose lectures on the little known republics of our southern continent neighbor have enlisted the attention of the country. No story told upon the platform has awakened greater interest nor proven more timely, in this epoch-making era when trade conditions are being America has suddenly become a fruitful field for American commercial conquest. Ray's offering will be a strikingly interesting travel talk, with illustrations. He takes his hearers on a personally conducted tour of South America, graphically describing the vast area of the country, with room and fertility of soil to support the world; passing through territory where few white men have ever penetrated, making the acquaintance of savage tribes with customs old as the ceremonies of the Holy Land; standing at the border land of unexplored territory comprising tens of thousands of miles; thirteen hundred miles from a railroad, visiting the oldest known cities built by prehistoric man, then back to marvel at the modernity of the present great cities of the country, which are among the most progressive in the world.

And then the first day comes the Chronophotographs. Here Lima people may see themselves as others see them or at least the folks of the town in action. There will be scenes and incidents about town, snap shots of the opening day parade boosting the chatauqua and many other interesting and amusing episodes recorded in the photographs.

AMUSEMENTS

THE FAUROT'S PICTURES.

It is a mighty good picture that the Famous Players have made of "Destiny's Toy", which may be seen for the last times at the Faurot today. Louise Huff has the leading role, that of a castaway raised from childhood to womanhood by an old fisherman. Miss Huff is surrounded by a good cast and the picture is staged in picturesque locations. The story contains many human touches and there are strongly contrasting types. "Imperial Berlin," as seen by the camera of Burton Holmes, and the latest edition of the Pathe News complete the program.

STAR THEATRE.

The new Universal bill at the Star theatre today is graced by two splendid features, with casts of extraordinary excellence. Dorothy Davenport and Emory Johnston appear in a two-part Laemmle drama, "No. 16 Martin Street." Rupert Julian and Elsie Jane Wilson are featured in a Victor drama, "Little Boy Blue." A Powers cartoon comedy, "Sammy Johnson Gets a Job," lends variety and humor to the program. Today only.

No story told upon the platform has awakened greater interest nor proven more timely, in this epoch-making era when trade conditions are being America has suddenly become a fruitful field for American commercial conquest. Ray's offering will be a strikingly interesting travel talk, with illustrations. He takes his hearers on a personally conducted tour of South America, graphically describing the vast area of the country, with room and fertility of soil to support the world; passing through territory where few white men have ever penetrated, making the acquaintance of savage tribes with customs old as the ceremonies of the Holy Land; standing at the border land of unexplored territory comprising tens of thousands of miles; thirteen hundred miles from a railroad, visiting the oldest known cities built by prehistoric man, then back to marvel at the modernity of the present great cities of the country, which are among the most progressive in the world.

And then the first day comes the Chronophotographs. Here Lima people may see themselves as others see them or at least the folks of the town in action. There will be scenes and incidents about town, snap shots of the opening day parade boosting the chatauqua and many other interesting and amusing episodes recorded in the photographs.

WHAT'S INFANTILE PARALYSIS?

Poliomyelitis is the technical name for the epidemic that is sweeping New York and menacing the rest of the nation.

All that is known of the way the disease is spread is that there is virus present in the membrane of the nose which is spread by nasal discharges. Flies and dust may carry it.

It affects the gray matter at the base of the brain, and even if the child recovers, he is usually paralyzed for life.

Though commonest among babies, adults are often victims. People of 60 and 70 are known to have died of the disease.

LIME CAUSES INCREASE IN CROP YIELDS

As an average of 10 crops of wheat in the five-year rotation at the Ohio Experiment Station, an expenditure of $5 for lime once in the rotation has resulted in an average gain of $16.47 an acre for all five years, according to results reported in Bulletin 296 on Wheat Experiments just published by the Experiment Station at Wooster. From one to two tons of ground limestone is applied per acre in the spring to the corn crop.

Liming has returned 102 per cent on the investment where nitrogen in complete fertilizer was carried in nitrate of soda. It has returned 261 per cent when used with manure, and 234 per cent in connection with acid phosphate alone, and has even paid when used with basic slag. On the Wooster soil liming has always been necessary regardless of any fertilizer treatment.

YOUR "NERVES" CAUSED BY CLOGGED LIVER

You Will Find Great Relief By Taking a Wineglassful of Tollo Water.—It Makes Your Liver Act Nerves in Thirty Minutes.

Dawson Springs, the noted health resort of Kentucky, and home of Tollo Water, is visited every year by thousands who have found sure relief from nervous troubles brought about by clogged livers, in Tollo Water.

There is a reason for this. The clogged liver has brought about a general run down condition. And this general depression of the system extends to the nerves and affects them.

Tollo Water relieves nervousness because it cleans out the liver, restores the natural activity of the bile tubes—flushes the waste from the stomach and bowels, and takes the burden of over-work off of every organ in the body.

For a nervous person to take colic or any such dangerous drug to relieve liver disorders is a sad mistake. The harsh action of such "remedies" affects nervous people is always the danger of salivating and upsetting the stomach.

The thing to do is to get a 15 cent bottle of concentrated Tollo Water from your druggist. Drink a third of a tumbler full in a glass of plain water before breakfast. It is Nature's own remedy for nervousness that comes from biliousness or constipation.

An occasional Tollo Water liver bath will keep the whole system strong and healthy. A 15 cent bottle is enough to last you for quite a while.

Indians Divide Games Yesterday With New York

NEW YORK, July 12.—New York and Cleveland broke even in a double header here yesterday, the home team winning the first game, 8 to 2, while Cleveland won the second game, 4 to 2.

Pitcher Cullup, who started the first contest, won his ninth straight game of the season. He was ahead when taken out in the fourth inning for a pinch hitter. Fred Beebe, the veteran Cleveland pitcher, was hit hard, Baker making a home run with two on bases in the first inning, and he was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning, when New York scored five runs.

The pitching of two minor league recruits featured. Russell, who relieved Cullup, did not permit a hit in five innings, while Gould, a youngster, just obtained by Cleveland from Dayton, allowed but one Yankee hit in four innings and struck out six men.

In the second game Cleveland knocked Keating out of the box in the third inning and Russell, who relieved him, again pitched shutout ball, permitting only three hits in 5½ innings. Lowdermilk was wild, but the Yankees could not hit him in the pinches. Scores:

SHORT SPORT

They say the Giants' pitchers are slow to pieces. Well, George Burns' bat wasn't full of holes in yesterday's game with the Reds. He hit two circuit smashes.

Stenel's home run drive also got the Dodgers against the Cardinals.

Yesterday we said to look out for the White Sox. Today the color has changed. It's now the Red Sox.

Splitting double-headers was all the rage. Outside of the Red Sox, White Sox, the rest of the American leaguers took turn about.

Pat Tosa Rogers, Nashville twirler, in the hall of fame. He gave no hits and did not allow a batter to reach first on the Chattanooga team.

Jim Allen, his opponent, only allowed one hit, a scratchy single in the seventh, the runner beating the throw to first.

Old Honus Wagner scored the run which beat the Braves.
Two studs by Whitted gave the beat; Philles the winning run over the Grays.

IRREGULAR TONE IS
WALL ST. FEATURE

NEW YORK, July 12.—Irregularity was shown on the stock exchange at the opening today with some issues, including Studebaker, showing gains of around a point. The majority of the list, however, was lower and in the first 15 minutes of business reactions and partial rallies followed in quick succession. American Zinc gained nearly a point and, Baldwin Locomotive and one or two others improved fractionally above Tuesday's close.

On the other hand while covering was in progress in some stocks, others were selected for attacks particularly the usually inactive specialties. United Fruit declined nearly 4 points to 151. American Beet Sugar, American Can, Marine Petroleum, Mexican Petroleum, Industrial Alcohol and other issues sustained declines of from fractions to two points.

Reading dropped 1/4 from the opening figure to 95 1/2, compared with 96 1/2, the high mark of Tuesday. General Motors dropped 5 points to 500. The market continued active and irregular, with more evidence of two-sided operations than at any time so far this week. In the late forenoon a covering movement developed and prices rallied 1/4 to 3/4 points from the early low range. Reading rallied from 95 1/2 to 96 1/2, Mexican Petroleum from 97 1/2 to 99, and gains of about 2 points were recorded in many other issues, including Industrial Alcohol, Studebaker, American Beet Sugar, Crucible Steel, Baldwin Locomotive and Willys-Overland. New York Central showed a net gain of a point and American Zinc a net gain of 1 1/4 points. Steel common declined from 8 1/4 to 8 3/4, but later recovered the loss.

Money loaning at 4 1/2 per cent. In the early afternoon the general market was quiet and in a majority of cases prices showed little net change from the best figures of the rally. Later in the afternoon, however, the traders resumed their driving tactics and unsettlement followed. Industrial Alcohol declined from 113 1/2 to 102 1/2, but later recovered about 2 points.

REPUBLICANS ADMIT EVIDENCE OF DEFEAT IN THE MIDDLE WEST

G. O. P. Leaders Amazed That East Feels Content of Success.

Satisfied With Prosperity Under Democracy; Favor Peace Policy.

A special dispatch from New York to the Cincinnati Enquirer says:

Several leaders of the republican party in the middle west holding conferences here this week are under the impression that the republican presidential campaign, if Hughes is to occupy the White House, must be the hardest drive made by the G. O. P. since the McKinley-Bryan fight.

"Unless almost superhuman efforts are made the solid middle west will swing into the democratic column, more than offsetting the anticipated return of the republicans to power in New York and the east," said a well known politician from Ohio. The same impression is conveyed by those from Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

"The average intelligent voter of our section of the country, whether republican, democratic or progressive, is amazed by the feeling of confidence entertained by eastern republicans," said the man from the Buckeye state.

Unwilling to Make Change.

"Much sentiment in the middle west is that it is unwilling to change the administration at Washington at this time," he continued. "What is opinion in New York?" is a question raised between the Mississippi and the Allegheny. The answer is invariably that New York believes Wilson's defeat a matter of only waiting for election day.

"Wilson is going to be a hard man to beat. I don't just see how it is to be done," is the response nine times out of ten.

"The question as to what seems to form the president's strength exposes widely different viewpoints. With hardly an exception, come words like these:

Satisfied With Wilson.

"Well, you see, the people out here are pretty well satisfied. Most of them are making money—there seems to be plenty of work and—here the voice sinks to an impressive whisper—they don't want any war. It isn't that they are not patriotic, but that they just do not like the idea of dropping their farms or little businesses and leaving families in want while they shoulder a gun."

"Of course they will go if they have to, but they have a sneaking idea that as long as Wilson can keep them out of war they would rather see him in the White House than some one else."

"How about Indiana?" a Terre Haute republican was asked.

Indiana for Wilson.

"I'm afraid the democrats will carry the state—but it's going to be a mighty close shave. Wilson does not appear to be personally popular. But men out our way take politics seriously. They think things over, form an opinion, and vote regardless of personalities or parties."

"The average citizen of the middle west and the far west is willing to be convinced. He desires to learn. He may be converted to the Hughes standard, but it will require an appeal to his reason and common sense."

Reminiscences of the War In the 60's

By N. C. A. RAYHOUSER

The following is the first of a series of papers written by N. C. A. Rayhouser, a veteran of the Civil war and a retired newspaper man. At the age of 81 years, the "Major" still takes a lively interest in the present as well as the past.

After more than half a century has passed since the first gun of the rebellion was fired at Fort Sumter the events of the succeeding four years seem almost like a dream. In May, 1860, the writer succeeded Mr. J. L. Baker as editor and publisher of the Defiance Republican at Defiance, Ohio, and so continued until after the breaking out of the war.

South Carolina was the first state to adopt the ordinance of secession, December 20, 1860, and the first to begin hostilities. In an extra edition of the Charleston Courier it was announced in large black type that "The Union is Dissolved".

Fort Sumter was assaulted April 12, 1861, and on the 13th, President Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers for the defense of the nation. This call was responded to with a readiness that showed that the country was thoroughly aroused.

Gen. James B. Steedman of Toledo, who had been the democratic candidate for representative in congress in 1860 against James M. Ashley, also of Toledo, began recruiting the 14th O. V. I. and went as its colonel. His ability, efficiency and courage were soon recognized and rewarded by a Major-General's commission.

An incident which seemed at the outset would result in a tragedy occurred at Defiance on the morning after the call for troops was received. The news had not yet been received in the country. A farmer of about 250 avertedpols rode into the town, unaware of the events that stirred the people to a pitch of excitement unknown before. Hitching his horse to a post in front of a hardware store, he inquired the cause of the commotion and was informed that hostilities had begun between the north and the south, that the president had called for 75,000 volunteers and that the enlisted boys were then drilling on the common. "Well," he remarked, "their dead bodies will make good fertilizer for southern soil". Some one overheard this remark and reported it to the prospective soldiers at drill. The boys lost no time in getting after the fat man, who having been warned of danger, escaped through a rear door and ran for his life. The boys being better sprinters, caught him, just after he crossed the bridge that spanned the Maumee river. A rope was brought and he doubtless would have been lynched had not Dr. John Paul, an influential republican, Attorney Horace Sessions and others pleaded for his life. Gen. Steedman was advised by telegraph of the man's peril. He at once sent a telegram ordering his release. Dr. Paul and other prominent citizens of Defiance gave him "safe conduct" to his home. He was not molested.

All that night the streets resounded with the tread of excited men, but as recruiting progressed comparative calmness followed, yet grim determination to preserve the Union was seen in every face. Without regard to political affiliation, nationality or creed the ranks of the volunteers under the call of the president for 75,000 men to serve three months rapidly filled up.

A farmer a short distance west of Defiance hoisted an alien flag which was supposed to be confederate emblem. He was ordered to haul it down but refused. A file of recruits, with an American flag appeared on the place, removed it despite his protest, and ran up the Stars and Stripes over his roof. A warning against its removal.

Of subsequent events I will write in another paper.

GET WHAT YOU ARE WORTH.

As a matter of fact the world owes a man nothing that he does not earn. In this life a man gets about what he is worth, and he must render an equivalent for what is given him. There is no such thing as inactive success.—Dr. Russell H. Conwell in the American Magazine for April.
